Paddle-Bike-Walk-Skate Stow Lake

The largest lake in Golden Gate Park, Stow Lake was originally planned as a reservoir. It was completed in 1893 in time for the Midwinter Fair and immediately became a popular recreational destination. Get an inside view of Golden Gate Park by boating on Stow Lake; walking, biking or skating around it. You'll see beautiful arched bridges and see man-made waterfalls. Waterfowl and other birds have made this a nesting area, making this a nice place for beginning birders to explore. Pedal, electric, and rowboat rentals are available for $13-$17 an hour (cash only). Food and beverages are also available at the snack bar. Please pack a sack lunch or bring money for lunch.
